THE NEW HOME

Large Crowd Attended Reception at Home of the Friendless.

IT WAS A PRETTY OPENING

The Guests Were Delighted With the Elegant New Institution Just Completed.

OFFICIAL VISIT MADE LAST NIGHT

Yesterday afternoon and evening the doors of the beautiful new Home of the Friendless were thrown open to the public and many hundreds called during the hours. If any came to criticize, they certainly remained to praise, for from basement to attic it gave pleasure to all who saw it, and is, indeed, a credit to our city. It is a splendid, substantial brick structure, modern in architecture, but free from all gingerbread effect, there is nothing cheap or tawdry about it. It emphasizes the fact that "beauty is adorned the most," and speaks comfort, elegance, and durability in all its stately outline. Mr. W. L. Brainerd is the architect and the fine building is a monument not only to his talent and capability as an architect but to his splendid generosity as well for the plans of the magnificent building and his personal superintendency of every detail were a free gift, and certainly no more valuable donation was made by any citizen. His time, talent and thought were given unreservedly.

The building has a fine location, being out beyond the city's crowded confusion, yet within a square of the street car line, and is surrounded by extensive grounds adapted to the children's healthful play and exercise. The entire building is steam heated, and lighted by electricity, and the sanitation has been especially looked to.

As you enter, the pretty stairway and hall give you a feeling of space and of pleasure, and quite prepare you for the attractiveness of the rest of the house. To the right, on the first floor is the reception room which is exceedingly pretty. This was furnished by Mr. Armour, Gardner as a memorial to his first wife, Mrs. Harriet Leach Gardner, and has pretty rugs, chairs, table, desk, ornaments and pictures, very attractively arranged. A full length picture of Mrs. Gardner, who was one of Paducah's handsomest girls and the wife of this room. Opening out of this is the play-room which is another beautiful and tender memorial. To the furnishing of this room Col. Fred Fleming, the Texas oil magnate, gave $100 in memory of his little daughter, Urdine, who recently died. Everything in the room is selected with beautiful care and taste. An exquisite copy of Raphael's "Madonna of the Oak" hangs over the mantel, and the rug, long table, chairs, and clock are all very handsome. Under the windows are broad seats, the tops of which lift up, and are spacious store-houses for the children's toys, of which Santa Claus will soon give them an abundant store. Beside these rooms there are the large and sunny dining room, the housekeeper's room, a lavatory, a large, airy kitchen, and convenient pantries, all on the first floor. The entire house is finished in natural wood and the floors are all hardwood.

On the second floor are two large dormitories for the girls and boys, and another dormitory for women, the matron's room, three splendid bath rooms, a large linen closet, a nice hospital, and every convenience that could be desired. The rooms all looked as cozy as possible with their little white enamel beds and in the hospital was one little fellow in bed who, reaped a beautiful harvest of sympathy and nickels from all who saw him.

Of course there are many things that the board of directors feel is needed to complete the furnishing of the home, for all could not be gotten at once, but many beautiful gifts were carried off yesterday, and many will be given later, now that the needs have been seen. Some of the gifts were most beautiful, generous and useful yesterday, and the money contribution was quite large. In the reception room there was a book in which were recorded the names of all who were willing to become honorary members of a board of directors at the payment of $1 per year, and some 70 names were enrolled yesterday afternoon and others last evening.

Perhaps never were more railroad faces nor more grateful hearts in our city—or any city—than those of the fifteen nobles, brave women who compose the board of the home, and who have toiled so faithfully and so uncomplainingly, and who yesterday saw the reward of their heroism and labor.

As one of them said yesterday: "We simply cannot realize even yet. It is too good to be really true." No one grudged them the crown of praise that was theirs on Thanksgiving eve. Their names are good to say over and over: Mrs. James Campbell, president; Mrs. Elbridge Palmer, vice president; Mrs. Charles Johnson, secretary; Mrs. W. M. Rawls, assistant secretary, and Mrs. E. P. Gilson, Treasurer. Mrs. Louie M. E. R. James, Mrs. R. E. R. James, Mrs. Louie Maxwell, Mrs. John Rook, Mrs. John G. Miller, Dr. Della Caldwell, Mrs. James Wallis, Mrs. J. R. Paryear, Mrs. Will Kidd.

The matron has just arrived and is Miss Raper, of Indianapolis. Mrs. B. Steiner is the housekeeper.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the home was dedicated in an impressive manner by the Ministerial Association of the city. Appropriate and interesting talks were made by the Rev. J. C. Reid, Dr. W. E. Cave, and Rev. G. E. Reed, who gave good words of helpful praise cheerfully. The building was then thrown open and inspected by many callers. In the pretty dining room delightful refreshments and coffee were served.

At night the council and many other distinguished citizens, who were unable to attend in the afternoon, called. Altogether it was a gala event in Paducah's history and a fitting prelude to the first Thanksgiving of the new century.

CIRCUIT COURT.

A NUMBER OF ORDERS MADE BY JUDGE HUBBARD THIS MORNING.

Circuit court had a session this morning and several items of interest to the public were entered on the minute book.

A judgment in the case of John T. Dosevan, administrator of the estate of T. W. Harley against Kate Harley and others was filed, making a settlement of the estate.

The claim of $2400 placed by Kate Harley was disallowed and the following allowances made: J. T. Dosevan, administrator, $100; J. D. McQuinn, attorney, $100; Master Commissioner G. H. Hubbard, $10 and the costs of the case amounting to $40.50, making a total of $250. The remainder of the estate was ordered divided among the heirs equally.

In the case of Pat Halloran and others against Maria Cowlin, the attorney for the non-resident filed his report and was made the regular allowance. A judgment for $12.45 was then filed for the plaintiff and the land ordered sold to satisfy the judgment.

In the case of J. T. Jackson, assignee, against the McHenry Coal Co., and others an order for the assignee to sell all the unpaid claims at public auction was made and the sale will be made fifteen days from the date of the advertisement.

The case of Willis Macon against Paducah Street Railway Co. an appeal from the court of appeals was entered and a mandata also filed for record.

In the case of Maria Doyle, against George M. Oehlischlager the petition of the plaintiff was dismissed absolutely to which the plaintiff objected and prayed an appeal to the court of appeals, which was granted.

Mr. Dudley Meacham of the Sun has received news of the marriage yesterday at Hopkinsville of his cousin, Miss Ivy Meacham, to Mr. Harry G. Edwards.

The following licenses were issued yesterday afternoon late: J. K. Stewart, a farmer of the county, aged 31, to Mattie Johnson of the county, aged 21. It will be the second marriage of both, and is set for today.

HE WAS SHORT

Suicide at Louisville of City Treasurer Young.

LOST $50,000 ON HORSE RACES

The Publication of His Shortage Caused the Death—He Was a Prominent Man.

LOUISVILLE GREATLY SHOCKED

Louisville, Nov. 28.—Stuart R. Young, for four years city treasurer of Louisville, committed suicide last night by shooting himself in the head. This followed an exposure in an afternoon paper of a shortage in his accounts with the city. Some believe his shortage to be at least $50,000. Suspicion was aroused from the fact that Young refused to turn over his books to James B. Camp, who was recently elected to succeed him. A story of the shortage was then published under the impression that he had left town. At 10 o'clock Young, while returning to the Louisville hotel for dinner, saw a paper exposing the shortage. Without a word he started down Sixth street toward the river, followed by two newsboys who had tried to sell him a paper and who noticed his suspicious actions. He turned into an alley leading to the 1 O. freight yards between Sixth and Seventh. The boys stood at the mouth of the alley for a minute and then heard a shot. They ran to Sixth and Main where they notified a cabman, who followed them and found Young lying on his face with a bullet wound behind his right ear. Death had been instantaneous.

Col. Bennett B. Young, his father, said that he knew nothing of his son's shortage. If it had been $50,000 it could have been made up in fifteen minutes. His brother, Lawrence Young, of Chicago, who is wealthy, was notified of the shortage and telegraphed to the surety company to take no steps that he would be here to make the shortage good.

There have been no new developments today in the suicide of the city treasurer, Stuart Young.

The investigation, it is said, shows a shortage of $50,000. He is said to have spent large sums daily betting on horse races. His father, Col. Bennett Young, and his brother and sister are prostrated. Nothing ever shocked the city more.

—Mr. James O'Neill will be seen at The Kentucky Tuesday night, December 3rd, in Liebler & Co.'s stupendous scenic production of "Monte Christo." Mr. O'Neill has been associated for a long time with the role of Edmund Dantes, and with his knowledge of technique and versatility, he has made a type of all that is best in dramatic drama. He has endowed the character with a virility and dramatic fire that make it stand out as one of the greatest pieces of acting on the contemporary stage. This year's production of "Monte Christo" is so massive and gorgeous that it is said to be entitled to rank alongside the great productions of Henry Irving at the London Lyceum. Mr. O'Neill's company includes Mr. Frederick DeBelleville, Mr. Warren Conlan, Mr. James O'Neill, Jr., W. J. Dixon, Claude Gilbert, Joseph Blaylock, Mark Elliott, Miss Selene Johnson, Miss Kate Fletcher, Miss Virginia Keating and Miss Maria Downs. The supporting company numbers nearly one hundred.

PLEASANT SURPRISE PARTY.

A surprise party was last evening given to Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McNamara of No. 419 South Ninth street. The first prize was won by Mrs. Hossian and Mrs. Ella Grogan won the booby prize. Refreshments were served. Those present were: Messrs. and Mesdames Kelley, Healan, Grogan, Galvin, Woolridge, Clark, Budde, Jacobs, Lydon, Rora, Sauerberg, Mesdames Lottie Burnam, Ella Grogan, Messrs. Will Lydon, Jr., Nevill McNamara, Miss Helen Rora, Mary Sauerberg, Dora Burnam, Mary Smith, Fanny Prince.

HAS NEVER LOST AN HOUR.

Officer J. R. Gray, who has a west end day boat, is one of the few police officers Paducah ever had who has never lost a single hour since he was appointed, nearly four years ago. He is both a popular and efficient officer.

ONE HUNDRED KILLED

Terrible Wreck on the Wabash Road Last Night in Michigan.

A Passenger Train Collides With an Emigrant Train and Scores Perish and are Afterward Cremated.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 28.—The Limited Special train on the Wabash road, of Michigan, and an immigrant train loaded with several hundred Italians met in a head-on collision at Adrian, Mich., a station several miles out of Detroit, at midnight last night and caused one of the most disastrous railroad wrecks in the history of the world.

Fifty were killed outright and thirty have died since that time with twenty-five reported dying this morning. One hundred and fifty are reported seriously and some fatally injured and both crews of the trains were killed outright when the trains met.

The trains struck on the main line at the above mentioned station while both were under a high rate of speed and the engines were reduced to a shapeless heap of scrap iron. The cars caught fire and several were completely destroyed before any attempt could be made to extinguish the blaze.

Mr. B. W. Whitney, the chief dispatcher of the Ontario road, one of the best known train dispatchers, was killed in the wreck with several other employees of the Wabash road. A complete list of the killed and injured is impossible to be had as many are mutilated beyond recognition.

The Wabash road runs out of Buffalo and through Detroit into Chicago and the limited special that met the immigrant train was one of the fastest mail trains on the road.

It is known today that at least one hundred perished in the wreck. The burning cars consumed the bodies. Fifty of the dead were immigrants going west.

A CHRISTMAS TREE

The Sun Again Plans for the Pleasure of the Poor Children on Christmas Day.

WANTED—A NEW KING.

If I were king of fairland, With undisputed sway— If all I wished to do I might In my peculiar way— I'd see that every latter sent For Santa Claus to read Should find beneath his kindly eye, And that no child should ever sigh Or, longing, wait and wonder why The saint had failed to heed.

Christmas! Christmas! The spirit is already in the air. All hearts are feeling the nearness of its approach and many hands are already busy doing the loving remembrances that bring such joy on the great feast day. The closing year has been a very prosperous one, and the indications point to the greatest Christmas we have ever had. And now, while we are planning for our own Christmas, and for the pleasure for our friends, The Sun is asked to suggest that we give some thought to our less fortunate people and give them, too, the greatest Christmas they have ever known. While most of us are enjoying a good measure of prosperity there are a good many who have not been so fortunate. Let us stop and think of them. This is the age of great charity.

TWO GOOD PERFORMANCES.

Orator Clarke, that popular and polished actor, with an excellent company, gave two performances at The Kentucky yesterday, a matinee, and a performance in the evening. The matinee crowd was large, but the evening performance deserved better patronage. "David Garrick" was presented in the afternoon, and "Don Caesar de Bazan" in the evening. Mr. Clarke is as good as ever, and his support was good. The scenery and costumes are appropriate, and the audience was greatly pleased. Mr. Clarke was seen in Paducah a little over a year ago in "The Last of His Race."

IRISH PATRIOT DEAD.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Martin Hogan, the Irish patriot, who has been lying at the county hospital for some days, died yesterday aged 93 years. Hogan together with others interested in the Fenian movement were convicted of treason in 1865, and transported to the English penal colony in Australia. In 1869 Hogan and his companions, excepting John Boyle O'Reilly, who had previously escaped, were rescued by a boat which had been fitted out for the purpose by Irish sympathizers.

CAPTAIN ROBBED.

FIVE DOLLARS STOLEN FROM CAPT. MILO ANDERSON.

Captain Milo Anderson, of the steamer City of Carrollville was robbed of about $5 last night while asleep on the boat moored at the wharfboat's end. He retired after twelve o'clock and soon fell asleep. He had nearly $100 under his undershirt, next to his skin, and the $5 stolen was in silver which he had in a shot sack in his jacket pocket and his pants were placed under his head when he retired. When he awakened this morning the door of the cabin was standing open and his pants were on the floor where they had been left by the thief. The money under his shirt was not touched. He has no clue to the identity of the thief but thinks it was robbers from one of the boats that lay at the wharf last night.

FOR KENTUCKY AGAIN WINNING THE A. O. U. W. PRIZE.

Grand Master Workman Thomas D. Osborne of the A. O. U. Kentucky has won the prize three times, and now she is in for it for the fourth time. Grand Master Osborne, who has been over the state, reports that the chances are good for Kentucky to win this prize for the fourth time, as there had been a great percentage of increase in the membership.

An autopsy was held on a calf that died from the disease, and the results of the investigation will be sent to State Veterinary Bureau for his opinion.

Lunatic Tried for the Third Time—
Work of the Grand

Mayfield, Nov. 28.—Officer H. C. Wright arrested J. Frank Sanderson on June 16th for being drunk, and had to elish him. Soon after Mr. Sanderson brought suit against Mr. Wright and his associates for $1,000 damages, charging that the officer used more force than was necessary to make the arrest. The trial came up at the last March term of the circuit court, when a jury rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $400 damages. The judge set the verdict aside on the grounds that the evidence was not sufficient to justify the verdict. The case was tried again yesterday, and a verdict rendered for the defendant.

Mrs. T. T. Wortham, a former resident of this city, died at her home in Waco, Texas. She left here about twenty-five years ago, and leaves eight children, two of whom reside here, Mrs. O. J. Whittemore and Mrs. E. B. Beaumont. Mrs. Wortham died in her 80th year.

John Sallars died at his home, four miles west of Wingo, of consumption. He had been sick all summer and fall. He was about fifty years old, and was a constable in third district. Leaves a wife and three children, mother and two sisters.

Mr. Basil Enoch, of near Pryorburg, was before the court this morning on a charge of larceny. The jury adjourned him inasmuch, and he was ordered taken to the asylum at Hopkinsville, and J. P. Halcum and J. M. Covington appointed to accompany him. This is the third time for him.

The grand jury has been busy since it was sworn in two weeks ago. The total number of indictments found and turned into the court to date is 99, and it is thought they will complete the 100 by tonight. It will remain in session about another week.

THE SUN'S DAILY STORY.

STORY OF A BOY.

By JULIA TRUITT BISHOP. Copyright, 1901, by the Daily Story Pub. Co.

She was listening to the uniformed graybeard at the window, bending toward him a little with an air of charmed interest that warmed the heart under the gold braid. Flitting down to them the length of the drawing room came the hostess, that foolish little Mrs. Lessing, and they heard her saying to the gentleman beside her, while she was yet far off:

"Oh, I've just found you in time, and it's awfully awkward, but you know how people are always disappointing you at the last moment. You were to have gone down to dinner with Clara Riden, and Mrs. Harding with Raymond Blaine, and neither of them came—so sorry—"

The girl at the window had not changed her position in the least. She still leaned over the arm of her chair toward the uniformed host, and the General was suddenly conscious that the lovely young face had lost something of its color.

"Oh, Mrs. Harding," cried Mrs. Lessing, as she stood up and went toward her hostess, "so awkward for a husband and wife to go out to dinner together—people disappointed me—hint would you let Mr. Harding take you out, just to oblige me?"

The hostess did not wait for a reply, but took General Blake's arm and led him away. The two were left alone, both standing in the shadow of the window curtains. She did not look at him, but she saw that the head resting on the back of the chair from which she had risen was shaken.

"Since we are within full view of a number of our dearest enemies," she said with a scornful smile, still not looking at him, "it might be as well to play the farce out and look—well—say, decently interested in one another. People will discuss us some day."

"With all my heart," said the gentleman lightly, as he placed a chair for her further back in the window embrasure, and took another, close at hand. "We will disappoint them for once."

She looked beyond him, at the throng that danced and promenaded and walked down the long succession of rooms. She looked anywhere but at him.

"While it is really awkward," she said with a bitter voice and a charming smile, "for a husband to be forced to take his wife out to dinner, still, one may live through it under certain circumstances. One has but to remember that it is the last time he will ever be afflicted with her presence, and much may be borne. Really I scarcely expected to see you here tonight. Was I not led to suppose that you were to start for Europe today?"

"I start tomorrow instead," he replied, coldly. "The delay was fortunate. It gives me the opportunity to leave a fine day's wonder for yet another day. Let us do it thoroughly, while we are doing it. What shall we discuss to our faces; that will make us seem not merely tolerant of one another, but absolutely absorbed, devoted."

"Let us talk of love," she said, with a burst of scorn and despair that sent a crimson over her pale face. "Remembering our desolate home—my desolate life—we can surely talk of that."

"You are right," he said, leaning a little nearer. "We will talk of love."

She shrank away from him a little, but at the same moment she smiled and nodded at Mrs. Lessing, who passed near.

"Love," he repeated. "What a difference it makes in people's lives! You and I have agreed to say good-bye—have already said it. In fact, and we can afford to discuss love impersonally. I am afraid you are not smiling enough. I notice two or three people looking this way."

She smiled immediately, such a smile as comes to the lips after the heart is broken.

"Don't be afraid," she said, "I will play my part to the very end. You may go on with the one subject in which you may be considered thoroughly versed."

"Thank," he said, easily. "Shall I

—Miss Henrietta Crossman, who is to present "Mistress Nell" at The Kentucky Monday night does not hesitate to give to the members of her company full credit for their share in the success achieved by "Mistress Nell," which as is known, was for seven months divided between three New York theatres. The players have performed this musical stellar article by presenting her with a silver loving cup of goodly proportions. The present will be interesting if only for the wording of the "greeting" which accompanied it. This greeting began with a quotation from the play, followed by a sentiment from the donors. The "greeting" is addressed to "Mistress Henrietta Crossman," is signed by every member of the organization, and reads as follows: "Oyez, yea. All ye who have grievances! We, the undersigned, having none, beg your acceptance of the accompanying small token of our great regard for you, both as woman and artist." On one side of the cup is an excellent picture of Miss Crossman, in "Mistress Nell," masquerading as the rollicking Irishman, Ivan Adair, underneath which are the words, "Long Live Adair." The cup is a beautiful specimen of the silverware art, and will be long cherished by Miss Crossman as an evidence of the affection of the first company of players that supported her as a star. It is always in Miss Crossman's dressing room. Seats go on sale tomorrow morning.

ARE WOMEN INFERIOR?
In Old Questions Considered in the Light of What Science Proves.

For ages mankind has been distressed over the relative status of the sexes. The majority of men have held that the opposite sex is inferior to their own. That this is true physically does not admit of question, but their mental position is not so apparent. If one looks at the conclusion comes that woman's physical inferiority is the result not of sex, but of something wrong in her manner of life. Among the savages the strength and endurance of woman seem to equal those of man, and as a general rule her lord and master allows her the privilege of doing the hardest work and bearing the heaviest burden. A Mexican woman tills the ground, attends to the household, looks after the children and when migrating to another place trudges off with a load of goods and chattels on her shoulders and the younger members of the family perched on the top of all. In Germany women work beside their husbands on the farms and apparently are as capable of doing so. In Austria one sees women employed as masons' laborers, and in carrying bricks and mortar. In France one constantly sees women doing tranches, cutting sawed for beams and doing all the heaviest work of an agricultural laborer. From these facts it seems that when woman is physically man's inferior the fault lies in her method of life, which somehow causes physical degeneration. There seems to be no real reason why a healthy woman should have less power of endurance than a man of the same age and development. Perhaps "woman's weakness" might more justly be termed "woman's follies," for it seems an undoubted fact that medical men would have comparatively little to do if it were not for the injury that women foolishly or ignorantly inflict upon themselves and which the doctors are called in to repair. —Chicago Chronicle.

FEEDS ONE—STARVES OTHER

Feeds the body—starves the microbes! That is what Scott's Emulsion does in consumption.

We can't expect to understand all about these germs and microbes the doctors talk of. They say that one kind causes consumption. Consumption microbes feed on weak lungs. Perhaps that's so.

At any rate we know that Scott's Emulsion has a peculiar action on the lungs which gives the lungs new life and vigor. Healthy lungs starve the microbes out.

Life for the lungs and flesh for the body, that is what the consumptive has a right to expect from Scott's Emulsion. An ideal food and tonic for any form of wasting disease.

At "The Office Saloon No. 2," Charlie Bundy will eat one more of his famous red snapper lunches from 8 to 11 o'clock.

THANKSGIVING LUNCHEON.
One of the handsomest displays of things good to eat ever seen in Paducah was on display at Sam Gott's Office Saloon No. 2, yesterday. Mr. Bundy, the manager, had the following very tempting things: Red snapper, possum, turkey and celery and the whole was prettily decorated with flowers and presented a most tempting display.

At S. B. Gott's "Office Saloon No. 2," there will be red snapper tomorrow morning from 8 to 11.

Remembered and His Children.
When Theodore Roosevelt has closed the door of his home behind, the soldier, the statesman, the reformer, the writer, are all shut out, and only the husband and father enter. This is the life of the home. It is ideal. To the latter he is not only a father, but also a big, overgrown brother. One of his chief delights is to get down on all fours in the nursery and play with the younger ones. When the little bears tire he sometimes sits old Dutch folk-son for them. Though his voice was never intended for singing there is a certain quaintness and rough charm about these memories of Holland that greatly delight the children.

Don't miss Bundy's red snapper lunch at S. B. Gott's "Office Saloon No. 2," 200 Court street.

COST OF THE LAWMAKERS.
Europe's Parliament is Expensive. —Lancet to the Telegraph.

The most expensive parliament in Europe is that of France, which costs $1,500,000 a year. The French people are very well represented. There are 500 senators and 584 deputies, a total in excess of 500. Each receives a salary of $1,500 a year. In the United States the ninety senators and 360 congressmen are paid $2,500,000 in salaries. The members of the British parliament serve without salary. The incidental expenses of this body last year were but $200,000. The German reichstag, with its two branches, costs the voters an average $100,000 a year. Russia has no parliament in the American or French sense, so that this item is entirely saved. The legislators in the Italian parliament receive no salaries, but have free transportation on railways. The cost of the Italian parliament last year nevertheless was $150,000. The salaries of lawmakers in many parts of Europe seem trifling, according to American standards. In London, for instance, there are 150 members of the upper and 250 in the lower branch. The former get on pay at all and the latter but $500 a year. And if any session lasts longer than four months they are paid at the rate of $2.50 a day additional. The parliament of Holland comprises 150 members in the two houses. Members of the upper house receive $4 a day and of the second body $500 a year and mileage. The parliament of Holland costs $500,000 a year. The most scantily paid of any of the regularly salaried lawmakers are those of Austria. There are two legislative bodies for Austria, one meeting in Vienna and one in Budapest. The total cost is $500,000 a year. An Austrian law provides that the members receive 10 florins, or $2, a day.—Ex.

ABOUT YOUR COFFEE.
It remains for our humble and not very winning insect friend, the cockroach, to boast of an antiquity far beyond the steepest drama of the most arrogant human family. In fact, according to the Spectator, the father of all black beetles probably walked the earth millions of years before man. He had even a back cave in offer with the remains of last night's supper for the cockroach of the period we enjoy. His discovery established the fact that in the Silurian period there were insects, although, as the only piece of his remains found was a wing, there has been room for dispute as to the exact species. Mr. Gosse, in a preface to the second edition of his book, notes, says that what is probably a still older insect has been found in the lower Silurian in Sweden. This was not a cockroach, but apparently something worse. If the Latin name, Protocoles siluricus, be literally translated, it means the original Silurian bug—Yours Complacence.

NOTES OF THE RAILROADS

The Memphis Commercial Appeal says: Within a few days a new schedule will be announced by the Illinois Central showing a number of changes in the passenger service and in the arrivals and departures of trains. The deliberations in connection with the new schedule have not yet reached a point where the exact nature of the changes can be stated. The matter of the new schedule was brought up in a meeting of superintendents and division passenger agents with Assistant General Superintendent M. Gillespie, held in this city. There were present: Mr. Gillespie, division passenger agent John A. Scott of Memphis, and William Murray of New Orleans, and the following superintendents: O. M. Dunn of New Orleans, A. J. Greif of Vicksburg, J. B. Kemp, of Greenville, W. S. King, of Fulton and A. Philbrick of Water Valley.

Mr. B. F. Mitchell, for fourteen years general freight agent of the old C. O. and S. W. railroad, and well known in Paducah, died yesterday in Louisville, aged 55. He leaves a widow and three children, the latter being: Mrs. Boswell Torian, and W. C. Mitchell of Evansville, and Sydney Mitchell of Memphis. The two sons are connected with the Illinois Central.

All the shops of the I. C. here are closed today, and the employees enjoying Thanksgiving Day. Only the clerks in the officials' offices are working, and the shops present a very quiet appearance.

Mr. William Ellis, the well known engine foreman, who resigned several days ago, has gone to work for the I. C. again.
